“Advancing knowledge of veterinary wound healing”

“Latest news on wound management in horses and small animals”

May, 4th and 5th 2023 Milan

The way we treat wounds will influence largely the way of healing and the occurrence of complications. Two days about equine and small animal wound management will highlight challenges we all encounter in everyday veterinary practice, such as non-healing wounds, infections, large wounds, when using antibiotics and what products?

We will address a variety of treatment options and how to improve the local conditions of the wound. We will present about the use of dressings, local topical products, NPWT and laser. Additionally, we will elaborate on surgical solutions to heal wounds with skin grafting techniques and/or reconstructive surgery.

Thursday May 4th

Equine programme, including the Equine Wound Center session

Friday May 5th

Small animal programme, including short communications
